In Colombia, industry volumes improved by 2% during the quarter and declined by 10% during the full year. Our focus on pricing, in addition to the entry of new capacity by a competitor in late 2019, led to an underperformance of our cement volumes versus those of the industry. Our cement volumes declined by 7% during the quarter and by 17% during the full year. Our cement prices during December reached the highest level since 2016 in local-currency terms. Regarding our pricing strategy for 2021, we implemented a price increase of around 4% for bagged cement effective on January first.

During the fourth quarter, our cement volumes improved by 55% sequentially and declined by 35% on a year-over-year basis. Our performance on a year-over-year basis reflects weak demand conditions, and a new cement producer which came into the market during June 2020.

In the Rest of CLH region, our cement volumes improved by 11%, both during the quarter and the full year. Cement volumes increased in the 3 countries of the Rest of CLH region.

In Guatemala, our cement volumes were driven by an acceleration in the self-construction sector, a segment where we have a higher relative presence. Additionally, our volumes benefited from tighter controls along the northern border—implemented because of COVID-19—which restricted flows of cement imports.

In Nicaragua, we are encouraged by the improvement in construction activity observed during the year. Our cement volumes were driven by the self-construction sector, as well as by government-sponsored projects. Cement consumption was supported by increased remittances.

Methodology for translation and presentation of results

Under IFRS, CLH reports its consolidated results in its functional currency, which is the US Dollar, by translating the financial statements of foreign subsidiaries using the corresponding exchange rate at the reporting date for the balance sheet and the corresponding exchange rates at the end of each month for the income statement.

For the reader's convenience, Colombian peso amounts for the consolidated entity are calculated by converting the US dollar amounts using the closing COP/US$ exchange rate at the reporting date for balance sheet purposes, and the average COP/US$ exchange rate for the corresponding period for income statement purposes. The exchange rates are provided below.

Per-country/region selected financial information of the income statement is presented before corporate charges and royalties which are included under "other and intercompany eliminations."

Consolidated financial information

When reference is made to consolidated financial information means the financial information of CLH together with its consolidated subsidiaries.

Presentation of financial and operating information

Individual information is provided for Colombia, Panama and Costa Rica.

Countries in Rest of CLH include Nicaragua, Guatemala and El Salvador.

Definition of terms

Free cash flow equals operating EBITDA minus net interest expense, maintenance and strategic capital expenditures, change in working capital, taxes paid, and other cash items (net other expenses less proceeds from the disposal of obsolete and/or substantially depleted operating fixed assets that are no longer in operation).

Maintenance capital expenditures investments incurred for the purpose of ensuring CLH's operational continuity. These include capital expenditures on projects required to replace obsolete assets or maintain current operational levels, and mandatory capital expenditures, which are projects required to comply with governmental regulations or internal policies.

Net debt equals total debt minus cash and cash equivalents.

Operating EBITDA equals operating earnings before other expenses, net, plus depreciation and operating amortization.

pp equals percentage points.

EoP equals End of Period.

Strategic capital expenditures investments incurred with the purpose of increasing CLH's profitability. These include capital expenditures on projects designed to increase profitability by expanding capacity, and margin improvement capital expenditures, which are projects designed to increase profitability by reducing costs.

Working capital equals operating accounts receivable (including other current assets received as payment in kind) plus historical inventories minus operating payables.
